Cultural heritage and schools

The 2018 European Year of Cultural Heritage puts the spotlight on Europe's rich and diverse history and traditions, showcasing its role in fostering a shared sense of identity and building the future of Europe.

Cultural institutions (from museums to dance companies, and even sport clubs) are increasingly developing their services to providing schools with more opportunities to explore, play and interact with the site or the artefacts. Often empowered by ICT, there are numerous creative ways allowing students to explore what our cultural heritage is and how it can help us to shape the future.

Join the School Education Gateway webinar on 27 March to get inspired and learn what kind of 'cultural spices' educators can add to their school and classroom projects!
